Clerk of the Legislature

Gentlemen:

Enclosed with this letter is our report on the use of Long-Term Care Insurance Partnerships as a method for slowing the growth of Medicaid expenditures for nursing facility and home or community-based care for elderly Nebraskans. This report is submitted pursuant to Legislative Bill 709 (Laws 2005), section 12.

The report is a collaboration of the Nebraska Health and Human Services System and the Department of Insurance, with consultation from staff of the Governor's Policy Research Office and Senator Doug Cunningham's office. At the time of submission, federal legislation to lift the moratorium on establishment of future partnership programs is pending. If enacted, specific provisions of that legislation will determine the State's latitude in implementing a plan in Nebraska.

Please contact Ginger Goomis of HHSS at 471-9185 or Eric Dunning of DOI at 471-4650 with questions or comments regarding this report.

Sincerely,

Richard P. Nelson, Director
Department of Health and Human Services
Finance and Support

L. Tim Wagner, Director
Department of Insurance

Enclosure

LONG-TERM CARE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT ACT PLAN

INTRODUCTION

LB 709 (Laws 2005), sections 9 to 13, created the Long Term Care Partnership Program Development Act. The act provided for the development of a plan by the Nebraska Health and Human Services System and the Department of Insurance, in consultation with the Health and Human Services Committee of the Legislature, for the establishment of a long-term care partnership program in the State of Nebraska. This report constitutes the plan as required to be submitted to the Governor and the Legislature no later than December 1, 2005.

In preparing the plan, the Nebraska Health and Human Services System and the Department of Insurance analyzed partnership programs. These programs were established by states prior to the enactment of federal restrictions on the establishment of such programs under the federal Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993. Meetings were held with representatives of the Health and Human Services System, Department of Insurance, Governor's Policy Research Office, long-term care insurance industry, and the Legislature.

Prior to the enactment of a federal moratorium on establishment of long-term care partnership programs, public-private partnerships linking the Medicaid program and the private sector insurance market were implemented in the states of California, Connecticut, Indiana, and New York. Basically, such programs provide that persons owning state approved long-term care policies may qualify for Medicaid without spending down to the normal Medicaid resource limits. There have been two partnership models utilized by these states. The first is the "dollar for dollar" model where beneficiaries are able to keep assets, when applying for Medicaid, equal to the benefits paid by the long term care insurance policy. The other model used is the "total asset" model where all assets are protected after a threshold of a certain number of years of coverage, usually three or four years, under the policy. Medicaid becomes responsible as the payer once partnership policy benefits have been exhausted.

Federal law has prohibited the expansion of these partnerships beyond those four states. In 1993, the federal Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act amended Title XIX (Medicaid) of the Social Security Act to restrict such Medicaid partnership programs unless they had been federally approved as of May 14, 1993. Several states have passed legislation since that time allowing them to begin such a program if the federal law restriction is repealed. The potential benefit of these programs is to encourage people to purchase long term care partnership insurance policies to meet their long term care needs while saving Medicaid dollars for the payment that might have otherwise been expended for such care. This report will review and discuss the experiences and results of the long term care partnership programs in the four states that have operated programs; the issues for the insurance industry and their long-term care insurance products; the current federal legislation pending before Congress that might repeal the moratorium on long-term care partnerships; and the recommendations if the current moratorium is lifted.

LONG-TERM CARE PARTNERSHIP EXPERIENCE

Long-term Care Partnership plans, which were initiated in the early 1990's, have enrolled 211,972 policyholders<sup>1</sup> as reported by the United States Government Accountability Office<sup>2</sup>. The experiences of the four states can be instructive in terms of designing future programs and establishing realistic expectations about the short-range and long-range impact of such programs on Medicaid expenditures.

The Medicaid Program, as payor of last resort, is intended to serve persons with low levels of income and resources who are financially unable to provide for their own health care needs. Persons with income and resources in excess of these levels are required to utilize or "spend down" these assets before Medicaid coverage begins. In contrast, Long-Term Care Insurance Partnership policies allow individuals to shelter certain assets and still be eligible for Medicaid, should these individuals eventually require long-term care services and meet Medicaid income requirements. Approved partnership policies must meet certain minimum coverage requirements established by the State (e.g., years of coverage, daily benefit amounts, covered services).

As a trade-off for relying on private insurance coverage for a period of time and deferring Medicaid long-term care coverage, policyholders are allowed to exempt certain assets when establishing Medicaid eligibility. Medicaid benefits by becoming the secondary rather than primary payor. The opportunity to maintain personal assets through the purchase of private insurance offers an appropriate alternative to "artificial impoverishment" where a person's assets are transferred to family members in order to qualify for Medicaid coverage of long-term care expenses.

Two basic approaches are used to determine the amount of protected assets: dollar-for-dollar protection and total asset protection. Under the dollar-for-dollar model, the value of assets that can be protected is equivalent to the value of the long-term care benefits paid by the private insurer prior to Medicaid coverage. Under the total asset model, once an established threshold of private insurance benefits is covered, the entire value of the policyholder's assets can be protected. California and Connecticut have adopted the dollar-for-dollar approach, Indiana uses a hybrid model (with dollar-for-dollar coverage up to a certain benefit level and total asset coverage for insurance benefits above this level), and New York allows total asset protection with minimum coverage of three years in a nursing facility and six years of home care. However, New York is considering adding a dollar-for-dollar provision because it offers more affordable premiums to the consumer.

The typical profile of an individual purchasing a long-term care insurance partnership policy in the four states is a married female, approximately 60 years of age, relatively healthy, and relatively wealthy, with assets of $350,000 or more and monthly income of at least $5,000, as documented in the GAO report cited previously.<sup>3</sup> Of the 211,972 policies purchased over the life of these programs, 172,477 (or 81%) of the policies are currently active. Less than 2% of overall policyholders have ever accessed long-term care benefits and less than 1% of current policyholders are now receiving long-term care benefits. Of the 251 policy holders who have exhausted the benefits of their long-term care insurance policies, 119 (or 47%) have accessed Medicaid.

Because of the limited number of persons utilizing long-term care benefits, it is difficult to draw conclusions about the potential impact of such programs on Medicaid expenditures. We do not know how many policyholders who utilized long-term care but did not access Medicaid would have done so if private insurance coverage had not been available. We also do not know how many policyholders who accessed Medicaid would have done so sooner without private insurance coverage. Because of the time lag between purchase of a policy and the need for long-term care services, several decades of experience may be needed to fully evaluate the impact of partnership programs on long-term care financing. However, there are several reasons why partnership programs merit continued exploration.

Nebraska enjoys a relatively high market penetration at 17%<sup>4</sup> for long-term care insurance sales compared with other states, but the product is not widely utilized anywhere. Nebraska's population age 65 and over is projected to increase 75% by the year 2030. Longer life spans increase the likelihood of living with declining health and outlasting one's financial resources. Family members are less likely to be available to provide care. While the usual purchasers of private long-term care insurance do not share income and health characteristics with the Medicaid population, they have the potential to become Medicaid-eligible over time. They are also a likely focus for estate planners who encourage the use of various financial tools to dispose of assets in order to qualify for Medicaid long-term care services.

While long-term care insurance does not provide the complete answer, it may be one of several tools used in a comprehensive approach to lessen the pressure on Medicaid-financed long-term care. Suggestions gleaned from the four state operations include:

§ consumer education is vital to promote personal long-term care planning and to offset the prevailing notion that Medicare covers long-term care

§ the cost of long-term care insurance is a major deterrent, unless the policy is initiated at a relatively young age

§ inflation protection helps maintain benefit value between the date the policy is initiated and the date long-term care services are accessed but also increases the cost of the insurance product to the consumer

§ state-to-state reciprocity is useful so that the asset protection benefit can be accessed if the policyholder relocates to another state

§ insurance agent training is important to properly promote the sale of long-term care products

PARTNERSHIP POLICY REQUIREMENTS

The long-term care partnership programs implemented to date had several stated goals, including increasing the regulatory standards for long-term care policies and increasing public awareness of the need for long-term care insurance policies. In view of the development of stronger regulatory standards for long-term care insurance products in both partnership and non-partnership states and the increased public awareness of the need to plan for long-term care, these goals appear to have been met.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners has devoted significant attention to the appropriate regulatory standards and has adopted and amended long-term care model acts and regulations. In Nebraska, the Legislature adopted the first Nebraska Long-Term Care Insurance Act in 1987, amending and strengthening those standards in 1992 and 1999 as states gained regulatory experience with this product. The Department of Insurance adopted administrative regulations in 1988, with amendments in 1991, 1993, 1994, and 2000. These standards included such requirements as benefit triggers, mandated offerings of nonforfeiture benefits, and limitations on preexisting condition exclusions.

From a state public finance perspective, however, one of the pressing goals was to reduce dependence on Medicaid by encouraging citizens to buy long-term care insurance policies. In reviewing the rates of participation in the Long-term Care Partnership programs in the four existing states<sup>5</sup>, the relatively limited number of insurers offering these plans<sup>6</sup>, and the characteristics of the purchasers of these Partnership policies, the programs have not successfully created incentives for individuals to purchase long-term care insurance.

At the beginning of the partnership programs, significant attention was given to the development of a specific "partnership policy" which individuals would purchase to qualify for asset waiver. At the time the original partnership policies were designed, regulatory standards for long-term care insurance were less developed. While strict adherence to partnership plan-determined standards may have been viewed as necessary to protect purchasers, the development of regulatory standards tailored to long-term care insurance regulation over the last twelve years make those policy requirements less necessary. As insurers and regulators have developed more experience with long-term care insurance policies generally, the regulatory standards have been strengthened. These partnership specific policies, however, continue to make the policies more expensive and therefore less desirable. Any partnership plan developed in Nebraska should take these developments into consideration.

The partnership policies included policy terms that the partnership administrators believed would be desirable in a long-term care policy, most notably provisions that would provide protection from inflation by increasing the benefits over time. While these features and others like them may have been desirable for partnership administrators, they proved to be less desirable to actual purchasers of the policies. The increased costs necessary to support the added features priced the product out of the means of potential purchasers. These features represented significant deviations from products available in the non-partnership market, requiring not only increased premiums to support the benefit but increased costs for collection and analysis of actuarial data. These factors increased costs for purchasing partnership policies. Individuals didn't buy partnership policies, opting instead for less expensive basic coverage available in the states.

In addition, participation in the partnership program required extensive data reporting. While development of a Uniform Data Set was cited as an achievement of the program, the reporting requirements remained onerous. It is also unclear that the required data was actually necessary for the proper effective operation of the program. The data collection portions of the program appeared to be a disincentive to insurer participation in the partnership program.

<sup>6</sup> According to the Government Accountability Office, 17 insurers offer partnership policies in any one of the four states. Indiana has the highest number of insurers participating, with 8, and California the lowest, with 5. GAO-05-1021R Long-Term Care Partnership Program

To encourage participation in the program by actual individuals, it appears that rather than creating a specific "partnership policy", requiring only compliance with the current Nebraska requirements for long-term care insurance would be necessary. This will allow individuals to choose which policy provisions will be both desirable and affordable, and increase participation in any long-term care partnership program Nebraska would eventually adopt. Moreover, it would provide the necessary flexibility for insurers to offer a viable product that consumers would purchase. As Nebraska currently has forty-three companies authorized to market long-term care insurance in Nebraska, allowing each of these companies to develop viable products should improve the products offered to Nebraskans.

CURRENT FEDERAL ENVIRONMENT/INTRODUCED BILLS

As of the date of this report, Congress has begun to reexamine its 1993 decision to prohibit states from waiving asset collection. Several bills have been introduced dealing with various aspects of long-term care insurance in this congress. In particular, two conference bills, S. 1932 and H.R. 4241, specifically include provisions allowing states to adopt new long-term care partnership plans.

The ultimate form of the legislation is undetermined. However, the two bills allow Nebraska to develop a long-term care partnership plan designed to avoid mistakes made in the original partnership states discussed in the preceding section. Even the more restrictive of the federal bills would require the state at a minimum to require adherence to the NAIC Model Long-term Care Insurance Regulation. States would be allowed to require more stringent policy terms, but would not be required to do so.

In view of the currently undetermined form of potential federal legislation, no specific legislation has been recommended for the Legislature's consideration during the 2006 legislative session, but a copy of the state of Maryland's contingency plan for Partnership policies has been included for your review. Sections of the federal bills have also been included in the appendix to this report. We will continue to monitor the progress of the federal legislation and update this report should federal law changes occur.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Taking into account that any Nebraska long-term care partnership legislation would have to comply with yet undetermined standards set by federal law, currently, HHSS and the NDOI believe that a Nebraska long-term care partnership plan should:

§ Allow participation in a Nebraska partnership plan by allowing Nebraskans to qualify on a dollar per dollar asset collection waiver, based on the amount of protection purchased by the individual.

§ Limit policy requirements to those required by future federal legislation and Nebraska minimum long-term care insurance policy standards to allow Nebraskans to purchase policies that are affordable to them.

§ Restrict data collection from insurers to those items that are useful to the HHS system, focusing on data needed to project future Medicaid expenditures and data necessary to comply with federal standards.

S.1932

Deficit Reduction Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 2005 (Engrossed as Agreed to or Passed by Senate)

SEC. 6012. STATE LONG-TERM CARE PARTNERSHIPS.

(a) EXPANSION OF STATE LONG-TERM CARE PARTNERSHIPS-

(1) IN GENERAL- Section 1917(b)(1)(C)(ii) (42 U.S.C. 1396p(b)(1)(C)(ii)) is amended to read as follows:

`(ii) Clause (i) shall not apply in the case of an individual who received medical assistance under--

`(I) a Qualified State Long-Term Care Insurance Partnership (as defined in paragraph (5)); or

`(II) under a State plan of a State which--

`(aa) had a State plan amendment approved as of May 14, 1993, which provided for the disregard of any assets or resources to the extent that payments are made under a long-term care insurance policy or because an individual has received (or is entitled to receive) benefits under a long-term care insurance policy; and

`(bb) has a State plan amendment which satisfies the requirements of subparagraphs (B) through (G) of paragraph (5) in the case of any long-term care insurance policy sold under such plan amendment on or after the date that is 2 years after the date of enactment of such paragraph.

For purposes of this clause and paragraphs (5) and (6), the term 'long-term care insurance policy' includes a certificate issued under a group insurance contract.'

(2) SATISFACTION OF MINIMUM FEDERAL STANDARDS, TAX

QUALIFICATIONS, INFLATION PROTECTION, AND OTHER REQUIREMENTS FOR LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE PARTNERSHIPS- Section 1917(b) (42 U.S.C. 1396p(b)) is amended by inserting at the end the following:

` (5) The term `Qualified State Long-Term Care Insurance Partnership' means a program offered in a State with an approved State plan amendment that provides for the following:

` (A) Subject to the limit specified in subparagraph (D), the disregard of any assets or resources in an amount equal to the amount of payments made to, or on behalf of, an individual who is a beneficiary under any long-term care insurance policy sold under such plan amendment.

` (B) A requirement that the State will treat benefits paid under any long-term care insurance policy sold under a plan amendment of another State that maintains a Qualified Long-Term Care Insurance Partnership or is described in subsection (b)(1)(C)(ii)(II) the same as the State treats benefits paid under such a policy sold under the State's plan amendment.

` (C) A requirement that any long-term care insurance policy sold under such plan amendment--

` (i) be a qualified long-term care insurance contract within the meaning of section 7702B(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; and

` (ii) meet the requirements described in paragraph (6).

` (D) A requirement that any such policy sold under the State plan amendment shall provide for--

` (i) compound annual inflation protection of at least 5 percent; and

` (ii) asset protection that does not exceed $250,000.

The dollar amount specified in the preceding sentence shall be increased, beginning with 2007, from year to year based on the percentage increase in the medical care expenditure category of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (United States city average), published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, rounded to the nearest $100.

` (E) A requirement that an insurer may rescind a long-term care insurance policy sold under such State plan amendment that has been in effect for at least 2 years or deny an otherwise valid long-term care insurance claim under such a policy only upon a showing of misrepresentation that is material to the acceptance of coverage, pertains to the claim made, and could not have been known by the insurer at the time the policy was sold.

` (F) A requirement that any individual who sells such a policy receive training, and demonstrate evidence of an understanding of, the policy and how the policy relates to other public and private coverage of long-term care.

` (G) A requirement that the issuer of any such policy report--

` (i) to the Secretary, such information or data as the Secretary may require; and

` (ii) to the State, the information or data reported to the Secretary (if any), the information or data required under the minimum reporting requirements developed under section 6012(b)(2)(B) of the Deficit Reduction Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 2005, and such additional information or data as the State may require.

For purposes of applying this paragraph, if a long-term care insurance policy is exchanged for another such policy, the date coverage became effective under the first policy shall determine when coverage first becomes effective.

` (6)(A) For purposes of subparagraph (C)(ii) of paragraph (5), the requirements of this paragraph are met if a long-term care insurance policy sold under a plan amendment described in that paragraph meets--

` (i) MODEL REGULATION- The following requirements of the model regulation:

` (I) Section 6A (relating to guaranteed renewal or noncancellability), other than paragraph (5) thereof, and the requirements of section 6B of the model Act relating to such section 6A.

(2) UNIFORM STANDARDS- The uniform standards described in this paragraph are the following:

(A) RECIPROCITY- Standards for ensuring that long-term care insurance policies issued under a State long-term care insurance partnership under section 1917(b)(1)(C)(ii) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396p(b)(1)(C)(ii)) (as amended by subsection (a)) are portable to other States with such a partnership.

(B) MINIMUM REPORTING REQUIREMENTS- Standards for minimum reporting requirements for issuers of long-term care insurance policies under such State long-term care insurance partnerships that shall specify the data and information that each such issuer shall report to the State with which it has such a partnership. The requirements developed in accordance with this subparagraph shall specify the type and format of the data and information to be reported and the frequency with which such reports are to be made.

(C) SUITABILITY- Suitability standards for determining whether a long-term care insurance policy is appropriate for the needs of an applicant, based on guidance of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners regarding suitability.

(3) RECOMMENDATIONS- The recommendations described in this paragraph are the following:

(A) INCONTESTABILITY- Recommendations regarding whether the requirements relating to incontestability for long-term care insurance policies sold under a State long-term care insurance partnership program under section 1917(b)(1)(C)(ii) of the Social Security Act should be modified based on guidance of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners regarding incontestability.

(B) NONFORFEITURE- Recommendations regarding whether requirements relating to nonforfeiture for issuers of long-term care insurance policies under a State long-term care insurance partnership program under section 1917(b)(1)(C)(ii) of such Act should be modified to reflect changes in an insured's financial circumstances.

H.R.4241

Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (Reported in House)

SEC. 3133. EXPANSION OF STATE LONG-TERM CARE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM.

(a) In General- Section 1917(b)(1)(C) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396p(b)(1)(C)) is amended--

(1) in clause (ii), by inserting `or which has a State plan amendment that provides for a qualified State long-term care insurance partnership (as defined in clause (iii))' after `1993,'; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new clauses:

`(iii) For purposes of this paragraph, the term `qualified State long-term care insurance partnership' means an approved State plan amendment under this title that provides for the disregard of any assets or resources in an amount equal to the insurance benefit payments that are made to or on behalf of an individual who is a beneficiary under a long-term care insurance policy (including a certificate issued under a group insurance contract), if the following requirements are met:

`(I) The policy covers an insured who was a resident of such State when coverage first became effective under the policy.

`(II) The policy is a qualified long-term care insurance policy (as defined in section 7702B(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) issued on or after the first day of the first calendar quarter in which the plan amendment was submitted to the Secretary.

`(III) If the policy does not provide some level of inflation protection, the insured was offered, before the policy was sold, a long-term care insurance policy that provides some level of inflation protection.

`(IV) The State Medicaid agency under section 1902(a)(5) provides information and technical assistance to the State insurance department on the insurance department's role of assuring that any individual who sells a long-term care insurance policy under the partnership receives training or demonstrates evidence of an understanding of such policies and how they relate to other public and private coverage of long-term care.

` (V) The issuer of the policy provides regular reports to the Secretary that include, in accordance with regulations of the Secretary (promulgated after consultation with the States), notification regarding when all benefits provided under the policy have been paid and the amount of such benefits paid, when the policy otherwise terminates, and such other information as the Secretary determines may be appropriate to the administration of such partnerships.

` (VI) The State does not impose any requirement affecting the terms or benefits of such a policy unless the State imposes such requirement on long-term care insurance policies without regard to whether the policy is covered under the partnership or is offered in connection with such a partnership.

In the case of a long-term care insurance policy which is exchanged for another such policy, subclause (I) shall be applied based on the coverage of the first such policy that was exchanged.

` (iv) The Secretary--

` (I) as appropriate, shall provide copies of the reports described in clause (iii)(V) to the State involved; and

` (II) shall promote the education of consumers regarding qualified State long-term care insurance partnerships.

` (v) The Secretary, in consultation with other appropriate Federal agencies, issuers of long-term care insurance, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, and State insurance commissioners, shall develop recommendations for Congress to authorize and fund a uniform minimum data set to be reported electronically by all issuers of long-term care insurance policies under qualified State long-term care insurance partnerships to a secure, centralized electronic query and report-generating mechanism that the State, the Secretary, and other Federal agencies can access.'

(b) Construction- Nothing in the amendments made by subsection (a) shall be construed as affecting the treatment of long-term care insurance policies that will be, are, or were provided under a State plan amendment described in section 1917 (b)(1)(C)(ii) of the Social Security Act that was approved as of May 14, 1993.

(c) Effective Date- A State plan amendment that provides for a qualified State long-term care insurance partnership under the amendments made by subsection (a) may provide that such amendment is effective for long-term care insurance policies issued on or after a date, specified in the amendment, that is not earlier than the

(d) Standards for Reciprocal Recognition Among Partnership States- In order to permit portability in long-term care insurance policies purchased under State long-term care insurance partnerships, the Secretary of Health and Human Services may develop, in consultation with the States and the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, uniform standards for reciprocal recognition of such policies among States with qualified State long-term care insurance partnerships.
